It is said that in a recent interview, in which Ambassador Bayard was communicating to Lord Salisbury the dispatch from the American state department enforcing in strenuous terms the Monroe doctrine in connection with the Venezuelan dispute, the latter interrupted him midway with the remark that he need not proceed further, as the British government could not even entertain the arguments put forward, and absolutely declined to recognize such an application of the Monroe doctrine.

The St. James Gazette (British consular organ) says the good offices in the Venezuelan matter were being given by the United States would come with better grace if the American government had paid the indemnity it is required to pay by the Behring sea award.

TERRIBLE EXPOSITION.

On board the tug Morford in the Chicago River—Two Persons Dead and Six Injured—The Tug O. E. Green Wrecked on One of the Piers—The Shock Sent Portions of the Wreck Flying in Every Direction.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—The tug Morford exploded her boilers at 3:55 a. m. in the river, near Seventeenth street. The tug, O. E. Green was also wrecked. The following are the casualties:

THE DEAD.
John Erickson, fireman of tug Morford, blown to the deck of the steamer Ionica.
John Ferguson, captain of tug O. E. Green, blown up with pilot house; supposed to be dead.

THE INJURED.
Daniel McKee, fireman, ankle hurt.
Capt. John Cullinan, rescued from river in half-drowned condition; will probably survive.
Charles Dix, engineer of the tug Morford, blown to the deck of steamer Ionica; can not recover.

Wm. Lynnett, engineer of tug O. B. Green; not badly hurt.
Joseph Donnelly, fireman of the O. B. Green; slightly injured.
Joseph Moffatt, fireman of the O. B. Green; slightly injured.

Roy McLean, a cook at first reported among the missing, was not on board at the time of the explosion.

The shock came without warning. Capt. John Cullinan was in the pilot house. He was thrown with the wreck of the pilot-house in the river toward the east shore. The boiler surged through the air.

The tug O. B. Green was assisting in the tow. She was pulling the line to the west. The flying iron and pieces of the wrecked hull raked the deck of the Green, carrying off her pilot-house and injuring a portion of her crew.

Confined on its flight, the boiler curved to the westward and came down with a crash against the east side of elevator "E" of the Burlington railroad. The engine room was filled with twisted iron and bricks. The engineer and fireman fled for their lives. In the pilot house of the O. B. Green was Capt. John R. Ferguson. He was carried into the river with the wreck.

Lynnett, Donnelly and Moffatt were picked up in the yawl boat. These men were not seriously hurt except Moffatt, who was bruised and scratched by the wreckage that carried him off the deck of his boat.

VANDERBILT'S MILLIONS.

While Lashed on His Daughter, Can Not Be Squandered.
New York, Oct. 27.—In arranging the settlements preparatory to the Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding there were three family lawyers engaged. Col. William Jay represented Mrs. Vanderbilt; Channery M. Dewey represented Mr. Vanderbilt; and R. Harding Milward acted for the duke of Marlborough.

It has been reported that Miss Vanderbilt's marriage portion would be $10,000,000. It is now learned that principally as was Mr. Vanderbilt's settlement upon his daughter, it has a condition attached to it, namely, that the income from the $10,000,000 shall be for the use of the future heiress during her lifetime. At her death the principal goes to the issue of her marriage with the duke of Marlborough.

It is understood that upon his side the prospective bridegroom decided to Miss Vanderbilt large estates in England, which have been in his family for years. While the intrinsic value of these estates may not be equal to Mr. Vanderbilt's gift to his daughter, yet they have heretofore always been considered too valuable to be permitted to pass out of the Marlborough family.

Mr. Milward, who arranged all these matters for the duke, is a resident of Birmingham. He was the counselor of the father and grandfather of the present duke.

The name E. E. Holmes is painted on the trunk, which is canvas covered, with one large and two small straps, and weighs 125 pounds.

JOHN BULL'S OFFER.

If Permitted to Make Good His Claims in Venezuela Will Accept the Monroe Doctrine and Assist the United States in Maintaining It Against the Worst-It Is Not Likely to Receive Consideration.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—A special from Washington says:
The United States will not consider the suggestion of Lord Salisbury for an alliance for the building of the Nicaragua canal and the direction of South and Central American affairs.

It is understood that the suggestion did not come in a way to demand a formal reply. It was made in a tentative way, with the intimation that it would be put in the form of an official proposition if this country should indicate a disposition to consider it. It is uncertain whether the suggestion was ever put in writing by the British officials. The suggestion was made serially by Lord Salisbury to Mr. Bayard, and by him unofficially communicated to Mr. Olney secretary of state.

It is understood that Sir Julian Pauncefote has broached the subject in the way of a casual suggestion of what ought to be done, either to Mr. Olney or to the president himself, with whom his personal relations are quite intimate. No disposition to consider the matter was shown by the representatives of this government unless, perhaps, Mr. Bayard acquiesced to the general idea that something of the sort ought to be considered in a general way.

The proposition was plainly this: "That Great Britain would be satisfied if this country would permit her, without interference on our part, to take possession by force of all the territory she claims from Venezuela and would agree to the joint construction and ownership of the Nicaragua canal. She would then pledge herself not to seek the acquisition of any more territory on this continent and would recognize and join us in enforcing the Monroe doctrine."

It was represented that the governments of South and Central America were irresponsible and did not afford proper protection to foreigners and foreign interests and that Great Britain and the United States should join in compelling proper respect to the citizens or subjects and the interests of the United States and Great Britain, one country or both to maintain a naval force in the vicinity to protect the interests of citizens of either country.

It was intimated that unless such an arrangement could be made Great Britain would not recognize the Monroe doctrine as having any force and that she would be compelled to take such steps as she deemed necessary to protect British interests on this continent. This suggestion is treated as having no reference to the letter of Secretary Olney on the subject of the Monroe doctrine and is entirely informal.

The tone of the delayed reply to Mr. Olney's letter will, however, be influenced by the manner in which this informal suggestion is received. Being satisfied the United States will not consider a proposition for an alliance, possibly none will be formally made and the subject will be ignored as if never broached.

To reply to Mr. Olney is expected to be simply the alternative proposition that Great Britain cannot recognize the Monroe doctrine and will proceed to protect her interests in her own way.

THE SMUGGLING SCANDAL.

St. Louis, N. E., Oct. 27.—The supreme court in the case against Saloonkeeper Collins charged with dealing in smuggled liquor yesterday discharged the writ of prohibition restraining the magistrates from hearing the case, the court holding it to be preferable that the accused appeal on the whole case, if he should be convicted. Yesterday afternoon the magistrate concluded the case and sentenced Collins to six months' imprisonment.

An appeal will be taken, which, owing to the crowded state of the docket, will suspend the sentence for an indefinite period.

The magistrates yesterday suspended the licenses of twelve saloonkeepers who are involved in the smuggling until the charges against them are tried. The seizures of smuggled goods at Burlington are very large. They show that there is another band of smugglers independent of the previous ones. It is reported that another Whiteaway member of the assembly is among those arrested.

AMBASSADOR EUSTIS ILL.

He Was Not Permitted to Visit His Sick Wife or Go to Her Funeral.
PARIS, Oct. 27.—Mr. James B. Eustis, United States ambassador here, is suffering severely from bronchial trouble. His physician forbade him to go to Ireland when he learned of the illness of his wife, and will not allow him to go to the funeral. Mrs. Eustis' son and daughter were with their mother at her death, which, in view of the nature of her illness, was virtually sudden.

French official circles and American residents in Paris express deep regret at the death of Mrs. Eustis and sympathy with Mr. Eustis and his family. Mrs. Eustis was everywhere beloved and esteemed.

Bissell has been about for two days, but has not yet succeeded in securing a bond. He says that he will be able to arrange it in a few days.

SHOT INTO THE MOB.

And Two of Its Members Bit the Dust—Desperate Attempt of Lynchers to Take a Fugitive Murderer from Jail—Determined and Successful Resistance on the Part of the Sheriff and His Force.

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 28.—In an attempt early yesterday morning to avenge the murder of August Schultz, Tiffin's popular city marshal, who was shot down in cold blood by Leander J. Martin, alias Williams, a farmer of Hopewell township, last Wednesday evening, two more victims were added to the tragic affair.

At 1:30 o'clock a mob of 150 infuriated men, many of whom were under the influence of liquor, attacked the jail in an effort to secure Martin and hang him. A volley from a half dozen Winchester men, them, and Henry Mutchler, Jr., and Christian Matz were killed.

At daylight crowds began to gather in the vicinity of the jail, and Sheriff Van Nest fearing further trouble, called out Co. C of the Sixteenth regiment, O. N. G., to maintain order. This company, which is stationed here, is not numerically strong, and the sheriff, thinking Capt. Loomis' men would be unable to cope with a more general civic uprising, telegraphed Gov. McKinley for more troops. The governor complied with the request, ordering three additional companies to the scene.

During the day one company each came from Fremont and Sandusky, and late yesterday evening the company from Kenton arrived on the Big Four. It is not believed that there will be any further trouble, yet the friends of the dead men threaten vengeance to the guards who fired on the mob and the dead marshal's friends say they will kill Martin if they can get him.

Martin was spirited away to Fremont long before daylight, but this the people refused to believe. The names of the guards who fired the fatal volley are known only to Sheriff Van Nest.

The guards who carried out the orders of their superior officer and upheld the law with such terrible effect disappeared from the jail as soon as word came that Martin was safely on the way to Fremont. The mob quickly learned that the object of their vengeance was no longer within reach and slowly dispersed.

Inflicted in their plot to lynch the slayer of their friend the marshal, the mob's rage and threats of vengeance were directed against the deputies who had killed two of their number. They tried to find the officers and learn their identity if possible, but in vain.

A company of militia arrived last night from Toledo and went into camp in the vicinity of the jail, where the other four companies of the national guard are on duty, making an armed force of trained men sufficient to repel any attack which even an organized and heavily-armed mob might make on the jail. Col. Konnts, of Toledo, as ranking officer, assumed command of the militia, and the situation at a late hour gave no indication of another outbreak.

Mutchler was 23 years of age and a laborer. He was drunk during the night and was found in agitating lynch law. Matz was 33 years of age and a butcher. Neither was married.

It is expected that the Campbell meeting to-day will attract a large crowd to the city and that there may be scenes of violence as threats are still being made to blow up the jail.

A FRENCH PROTECTORATE.

With Exclusive Privileges On the Island for the Contender.

PARIS, Oct. 28.—The evening newspapers here publish the full text of the treaty of peace concluded by France with Madagascar upon the occupation of Antananarivo by the French expedition. The treaty comprises seven articles. In the first article the queen of Madagascar accepts the protectorate of France and the power accepts all the consequences of such protectorate, pending an end to the hopes of the parties who are advocating the annexation of the island.

The other articles stipulate that the French general shall control all relations between Madagascar and foreign nations.

France reserves the right to maintain military forces on the island, and the French resident is to control the internal government of the island.

The Hova government is not allowed to contract loans without the authorization of France, which assumes the financial responsibilities which Madagascar has heretofore contracted, but will assist in the conversion of the loan contracted in 1886 and also fix the limits of the Diego Suarez territories at the earliest possible time.

A BLACK BRUTE.

Surrounded by a Mob with the Certainty that Lynching Will Follow Capture.

CARROLLTON, Mo., Oct. 28.—Word was received here yesterday afternoon that a woman living ten miles south of town had been assaulted by a negro. Later advices state that an armed negro appeared at the house, but the woman succeeded in making her escape from him. An alarm was given, and an armed force immediately started after the brute.

Last evening the negro was run down in a cornfield. The force surrounded him, and his capture is certain. A lynching is sure to follow his capture.
